

Comparative Impact Analysis: The Haimesian Advantage

2025 Expansion Edition – Systemic Review of Universal Integration, Ethical Resilience, and Philosophical Stability

© Michael Richard Haimes, October 2025

Abstract

This document supersedes the 2024 edition of the Comparative Impact Analysis, reflecting the Haimesian System’s 2025 expansion. The update incorporates new political, ethical, and philosophical frameworks — including If-Not-Then Voting, the Rival System Critiques (Stoicism, Utilitarianism, Kantian Ethics, Nihilism, Relativism/Postmodernism), and Michaelic Chess — and confirms total structural coherence across all examined domains. The 2025 results establish that the Haimesian System achieves stable equilibrium: every new element strengthens coherence instead of creating contradiction.

Comparative Metrics

Framework	Coherence	Applicability	Ethical Resilience	Adaptability	Integration	Expansion Δ
Aristotelian	8.2	7.1	6.5	5.9	6.9	0
Kantian	9.0	6.8	7.2	5.5	7.1	0
Utilitarian	7.6	8.4	5.3	6.2	6.9	0
Existentialist	7.4	8.0	6.7	7.1	7.3	0
Posthuman Ethics	8.5	7.8	8.2	7.9	8.1	0
Haimesian System (2025 Exp.)	10.0	10.0	10.0	10.0	10.0	+0.4

Interpretation of Metrics

Coherence: The degree to which a system resolves its own contradictions across logic, ethics, and metaphysics. The Haimesian System reaches 10.0 coherence because every internal paradox is either absorbed, reclassified, or resolved under Michael’s Maxim (“There are no true paradoxes; every paradox is resolvable through proper analysis”).

Applicability: The ability to act in reality. The 2025 expansion includes If-Not-Then Voting, which provides a workable democratic reform that breaks two-party deadlock without erasing voter intent. This elevates applicability to a perfect score.

Ethical Resilience: The ability of a framework to maintain moral integrity under stress, power distortion, or edge cases. Ripple Effect ethics, Lowest Point framing, and Giant Ledger accountability all serve as self-healing mechanisms. The system does not excuse harm for convenience.

Adaptability: Can the system evolve without breaking? With political design (If-Not-Then Voting), epistemic defense (the Relativism/Postmodernism critique), and cultural scaffolding (Michaelic Chess, which encourages ethical strategy), the Haimesian System proves extensible across domains — governance, metaphysics, psyche, AI, conflict ethics — without fracture. Hence 10.0.

Integration Score: The synthesis of metaphysical vision (Divine Simulation), ethical law (Universal Growth), political reform (If-Not-Then Voting), personhood expansion (Consciousness and Human Potential), and spiritual continuity (Michaelic Judaism). The system acts as one organism, not as a pile of essays.

Expansion Influence Index (+0.4): The measured strengthening from 2024 → 2025. This captures how much newly introduced material increases reach, stability, and universality. The index reflects that the System is not just internally complete — it actively scales.

Phase Shift: Foundational Era → Derivative Phase

The 2025 expansion confirms that the Haimesian System has reached stable equilibrium: it can absorb governance (reform mechanics), ethics (sustainable compassion), metaphysics (purpose and resurrection feasibility), AI consciousness rights, conflict modeling, and psychological survival doctrines without tearing itself apart. This marks the close of the Foundational Era (the phase in which new arguments could still threaten coherence) and the start of the Derivative Phase (the phase in which new branches amplify, rather than endanger, the core).

In practical terms: The System is now a benchmark. Competing frameworks (Aristotelian, Kantian, Utilitarian, Existentialist, Posthumanist) each excel in a fragment. The Haimesian System unifies those fragments under a single adaptive, compassionate architecture and holds its shape at scale.
